WEEKLY REFLECTION

Fr. Wayne Bolton

In today's Gospel, seventy disciples visit towns and places Jesus intended to visit later. St. Thomas would have been among them. If July 3rd were not a Sunday it would be the feast day of St. Thomas the Apostle. On April 24th our gospel focused on Thomas who was not present when the other apostles encountered Jesus risen from the dead. You will remember he told the others he would not believe unless he could put his hand in Jesus' side. In most artistic representations of this scene, Jesus points to the wound in His side, inviting Thomas to come close and touch it. (John 20:19-31). One artist, Ruben Ferreira, took a different approach: Jesus not in the painting, just the face of St. Thomas, Ruben prayed and meditated, trying to imagine himself as St. Thomas. The face of Thomas at one and the same time, exhibits incredulity and joy beyond joy, and it looks as if Thomas is about to leap over to where Jesus is. St. Thomas is traditionally understood as having spread the gospel in Mesopotamia (modern day Iraq). The Syro-Malabar Christians of south west India have a belief that Thomas himself evangelized their ancestors 2,000 years ago.
